When Nobile Crew Sighted Rescue Plane

But the pilot, probably blinded by snow, failed to see the frantic attempts of the stranded crew to signal their location. After circling around the place, the airplane returned to its base. Then the Italia's radio sent out the distressing news that the plane had been sighted by members of the dirigible crew.

HIS "GOOD WILL" COMES HIGH

Shed a tear, if you will, for the harassed statesmen of Europe, who must abase themselves now and then to keep small but important rulers on the right side.

Those of us who go to the movies have witnessed lately news reels showing the turnouts of royalty and the populace of Europe to honor Amanullah, the king of Afghanistan, and his wife. Afghanistan is a fifth rate kingdom, yet by virtue of its strategic importance through its location on the border of India, the good will of the ruler is needed by European powers.

So, when Amanullah visited Paris, London and Berlin, they had to be nice to him. Amanullah made it hard for them. He bought things right and left in the shops and did not pay. Why should he be bothered with money matters? French, British and German governments had to foot the bill. They had to cater to his whim and accord him high honors, palaver and kowtow to him.

Cheerfully would they have booted him back to his mountain fastness. But they dared not. His good will was needed. Sad, indeed, is the life of the European statesman. —Dubuque Telegraph-Herald

It is said that when U. S. Ambassador Morrow at Mexico City was taken ill and put to bed the other day, he read detective stories to pass away the time. Wouldn't you think a fellow living in Mexico would have to read George Elliot or Jane Austen to quiet his nerves, instead of something exciting?

A number of "liberal Americans have gone to Russia and then come back to tell us how fine it is over there. But you will notice that they always come back.

Gene Tunney says that he cherishes the thought that as a playwright Eugene O'Neill is even greater than Shakespeare. We still think Tunney a better fighter than a literary critic.

The old fashioned lazy girl who did not get up until breakfast was ready has been superseded by the modern miss who does not get in until breakfast is ready.

The old adage about the chickens coming home to roost still holds good except that they don't come home as early at night as they used to.

Then there is another advantage in short hair. Since the women got to visiting the barber shops, the barbers don't get to do all the talking.

It wouldn't be so hard to outlaw war. The trouble would be in keeping it outlawed.

AND THE WORST IS YET TO COME

Julie Says—

"Are cape coats going to be worn during the summer and what materials would you suggest?" queries Mrs. T. L. Yes in deed they will be worn throughout the summer season and I think the nicest combination is the one with the detachable cape collar to be worn with or without as suits your pleasure and the dictates of the elements. As to the materials—there are so many—silk, cloth and velvet that you cannot go far afield in a selection. But I think the most attractive is one of lovely sheer velvet, and here is a sketch of one. It is really an ensemble. The cape coat is sheer black velvet, the frock a printed chiffon, black with an all over design of green leaves in two shades. A flowing tie at the neck, a pleated skirt, sleeveless or long sleeves. It was worn with a small black straw hat with a touch of green trimming. But the delightful feature is that it can be worn with any type of dressy frock.

BEAUTY

By LAURA LANE

Some women labor under the unfortunate delusion that all that is necessary to make their finger nails beautiful is to file them into sharp and dangerous looking points and then to daub them generously with red gloss. The effect of this treatment is to make ugly the loveliest hands.

Before starting your manicure soak the hands in warm water and castile soap for five minutes. This will both clean and soften them and pave the way for a really good manicure. Then wrap a piece of clean, absorbent cotton around the end of an orange stick, dip in olive oil and press back the cuticle.

Dry the hands thoroughly and file each nail with an emery board from ridge to ridge, and emery board to keep them oval and not too long. A steel file should be used to smooth the rough edges. A cotton swab dipped in lemon juice dipped into peroxide, will bleach a colorless liquid polish (see poster) or powder for those who still prefer it. If evenly applied merely enhances the natural gloss of the nail. Bright nail polishes are in distinctly bad taste and in no way serve to beautify the hands. Liquid polish will not peel off if a clean cloth is used to wipe it off the edge of the nail while it is still wet.

Some women insist on trimming the cuticle and, if well done, this is successful enough although it involves a lot of time and concentration. For the woman who has less time to spend on her nails, the danger of hemorrhoids and ragged cuticle can be avoided by simply remembering to push back the cuticle with an orange stick each time the hands are washed.

Vigorous Health

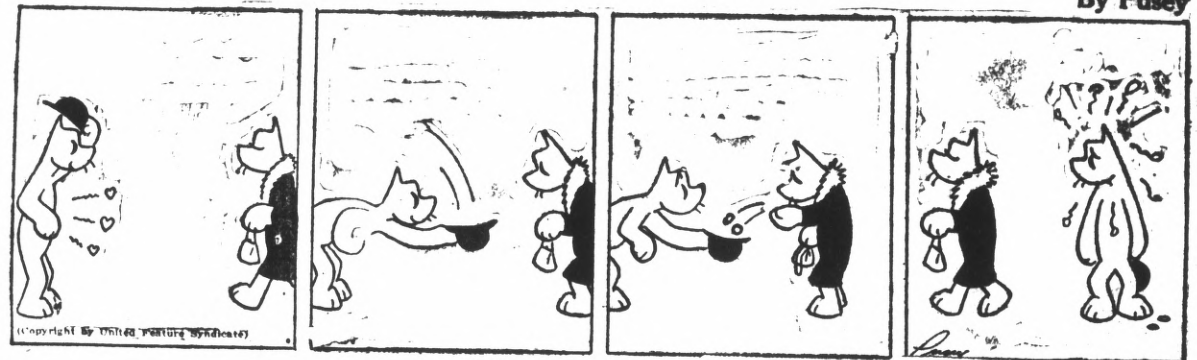

Please tell me what to do for chronic nose and throat trouble. P. A. Your description is very indefinite, as there are all kinds of nose and throat troubles. However, your question gives me an opportunity to emphasize the fact that all abnormal conditions are fundamentally due to wrong habits of living, which produce an excess of

Your Honor that scar would ruin my beauty for life. Why where is the scar Miss? Will I wouldn't dare tell you but if I had on my evening gown you could see it.

Toxins in the system and a decrease in the nervous energy. Since the fundamental cause, always the same, the fundamental treatment is always the same, variations being required only for individual peculiarities. I can therefore state with considerable assurance, even though I do not know your exact condition that if you will cleanse the system through fasting or an orange diet with a cream, you will notice a great improvement. Fresh air and sleep are always necessary. Fasting must be resumed gradually after a fast, and probably a diet of fruits, vegetables and buttermilk would apply.

"EL CATORCE" LEADS MEXICO IN BANDITRY

By Gerford F. Fine
MEXICO CITY, June 16, (U.P.)—With the returns still incomplete it looks as though "El Catorce," who might be described as the man nobody knows, would win the title of "Mexico's worst bandit."

In the central states of Jalisco, Michoacan, Colima and Guanajuato, El Catorce, deservedly or not, has through his deeds both imaginary and real dwarfed to extinction all other reputations and advertised himself to almost national fame.

El Catorce is blamed for everything these days in the way of bandit or revolutionary activity, which is sometimes filling a large order. Now and then this band is said to be only 20 or 30, sometimes several hundred. Frequently Catorce is killed or wounded or otherwise exterminated on paper. Like a villain in a movie serial, however, he always turns up in the next episode as if by force of habit so as not to spoil the plot.

The words "el catorce" mean "the fourteen." The urge to explain the origin of that name by a hair-raising, bloody account is perhaps one of the most tempting that ever confronted a conscientious correspondent.

One may be sure, however, that the real version would be better than anything one could invent, so why bother?

In the capital it is said that El Catorce got his name in one of two ways. One was that he first sprang into prominence by making a railway attack at a milepost labeled "Fourteen." The other is that Catorce was once personally responsible for the execution of 14 prisoners. A smoking receiver in his hand, Catorce put away these 14 behind a hillside—a woodland re-enactment of what happened to the famous, 14 found on a dead man's chest.

Despite his fame, however, most persons do not believe that El Catorce is worthy to be compared with Francisco Villa. Making due allowance for prejudice and the difference in the Spanish and English languages, there are some who describe him as "a bum."

The only question is whether Catorce has been present on all the occasions on which he is said to have been. If he was, he cannot be dismissed lightly.

Huge Tower Proposed As Peace Emblem

(CLEVELAND, O., June 19.—(U.P.)—A home and monument of peace in the form of a tower twice as high as any building in the world, to be constructed cooperatively by all nations has been suggested by Parker Wright Meade, local real estate broker.

"Now is the time when all the nations of the world should build a tower of civilization," Meade explained. "This tower, to be known as the 'Home of Peace,' would mean that better international relations and a lasting peace among nations could be brought about by the visualization and objective process of education."

The structure, according to Meade's plans, would be 1000 feet high and would cover three acres of ground. The "Peace Home" would contain 30 stories, each to be devoted to a nation to present its history, traditions, resources and characteristics by various exhibits.

The first floor of the temple of peace would be used for conferences of nations to be held periodically for the purpose of promoting good will.

Above the floors of the nations Meade suggests a universal cathedral to serve as a church for all the countries without denomination, creed or sect.

Each nation would appropriate money for the floor and create an endowment for its maintenance. Meade estimated the cost of such a structure at from $35,000,000 to $50,000,000.

Old Statue Is Recovered From Italy River Bed

ROME, June 18.—The head of a colossal statue of Pope Paul IV which lay in the bed of the Tiber for centuries opposite the papal castle of St. Angelo has been recovered and identified.

Pope Paul IV was bitterly detested by the Romans, and when it was known that he was dying the populace in its rage pulled down all the statues and heraldic emblems of the Pope, including the huge statue more than 20 feet high which stood in the Castel St. Angelo. The head of the statue was severed from the trunk and rolled around the streets of Rome by a jeering crowd until it was finally cast into the Tiber.

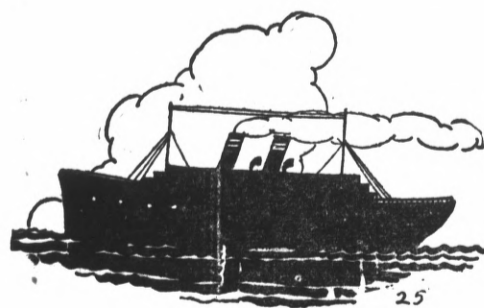

Some years ago, during the dredging operations, the head of the statue was recovered, but it has only now been identified by General Borgatti, director of the military museum in Castel St. Angelo. He suspected it to be part of the statue of the noted pope. Only one statue of this pope is extant in Rome in an ancient patrician palace.

Comparing the recovered head with the features of the statue the identity of the relic became at once evident.

BEAR VARSITY CREW WINS IN EAST REGATTA

BY GEORGE KIRKSEY

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., June 19.—(U.P.)—California's powerful eight hulled its shell to a thrilling victory in the Poughkeepsie regatta yesterday here tonight.

Columbia, which fought California for leadership to the very finish line, came in second. Washington, which in years gone by has written glowing pages in boating history, was in third place. Cornell, Navy, and Syracuse finished in the order named with Pennsylvania last by a considerable margin.

To win the race California had to row the four-mile course in 18:35 4-5 seconds. (C.) breaking a record which had stood for 27 years by 17 and 2-5 seconds. Cornell had made the previous record of 18 minutes 43 1-5 seconds in 1901.

The varsity race was the climax of a great day on the river. The Navy had rowed to victory, with Cornell second and Syracuse third, in the freshman race.

McLarnin To Meet McGraw In New York

NEW YORK, June 19.—(U.P.)—

After nearly two weeks of use by the dance debaters, Madison Square garden will see some stepping by two of the fastest in the lightweight division Thursday night when Jimmy McLarnin will attempt to use his McGraw as a stepping stone to further glory. Garden fans expect a lively bout, as Jimmy will have a real chance to try out his wallop on a target that will receive it.

Sammy Mandell wouldn't stand still for the hard-hitting little McGraw, noted for his ability to take "on and hand" "on back" was tapping on his training today, confident of being able to handle McLarnin's dynamite.

ADJUST BRAKES
Brakes are intended to retard the momentum of the car and gradually bring it to a stop. When brakes on your car grab, have them adjusted, advises the California State Automobile association.

Then the Navy came back with its junior varsity to win the second with Cornell second and Syracuse third, in the freshman race.

Butte Ball Pool Pays Players $10,000 Daily

BUTTE, Mont., June 19.—(U.P.)—

The Butte baseball pool has become one of the great gambling institutions of the world, rivaling even the Monte Carlo casino and the huge Chinese lotteries.

Between $4000 and $10,000 in prizes is distributed daily. The amount depends upon the number of chance-takers.

A ticket costs only a quarter. It entitles the holder to eight major league teams playing that day and the winner is the man whose eight teams pile up the largest total score.

Sometimes there are ties, more than one person holding tickets for the same teams. The teams are allocated to the ticket-buyer by shaking out rubber cubes from a dice-box.

The pool occupies spacious quarters in a downtown office building and the daily announcement of the winner or winners is an event of great interest locally. The name of the lucky one is soon known all over town, and if it happens to be a miner, a bootblack or a newsboy there is an expression of general satisfaction. Often, however, it is a wealthy rancher or a rich mine owner who took out a dollar's worth of tickets just to pass away the time.

Prosperity Fails To Turn Head Of Screen "It Girl"

BY GEORGE H. BEALE
United Press Staff Correspondent.

HOLLYWOOD, June 19.—(U.P.)—Clara Bow, the "It girl," is one motion picture star who can stand prosperity.

Her receipt daily of more than 1000 fan letters marks her as one of the greatest box-office personalities the screen ever has known, yet she remains the same unpretentious, thoughtful, of others person she was when she came here unusing.

Her Beverly Hills home (paid for by the way) illustrates the point. It is a small bungalow of eight rooms. Most stars need that many rooms to house servants. Her home is delightfully but not elaborately furnished.

She has but one car, American make, standard model. She is interested in foreign importations but she doesn't especially care to own one.

To manage her home and to care for her needs she has two women, more companions than servants. A German matron, whose loyalty to Miss Bow is second only to her loyalty to her family of three children, presides in the kitchen. A Swedish girl acts as personal maid in the home and on the set.

Many of Hollywood's screen satellites are unable to recall their experiences prior to their first success in films. The industry's best known proponent of "It" not only remembers names of her classmates at Hayridge school in Brooklyn but she also corresponds with some of them.

Women Can't Wear Same Gown Twice At Ascot Heath

ASCOT HEATH, Eng., June 19.—(U.P.)—Custom dictates that no women may wear the same gown twice in Ascot. And because the opening day today was one of the "full state" days, the best of Milady's new summer wardrobe was brought forth and paraded before the many thousands of admiring eyes that gather here each year.

Belge, mahogany red, lime and chartreuse green. Forget-me-not blue, cowslip and buttercup yellow, and delicate shades of coral were the dominant colors. Printed crepe de chine and chiffon in a wide range of designs—mostly natural flower patterns—and colorings occupied the position of prominence.

Of course large picture hats—the accepted Ascot tradition—were greatly in evidence. Lace, especially the exquisite two-tone varieties, held its own as an adornment for daily georgette and chiffon frocks.

Millionaire Scores Beat As Reporter

SAN FRANCISCO, June 19.—(U.P.)—When the Southern Cross flashed out of the tropical skies and settled on an improvised airport in the little town of Suva, Fiji Islands, it accomplished the longest water flight in the history of aviation and created the greatest news emergency the South Seas had ever known.

Millions of readers in all sections of the world followed the progress of Captain Charles Kingsford-Smith, and his companions of the air, Charles T. P. Uim, a fellow Australian, and Lieutenant Harry Lyon and James Warner, Americans.

Sir Maynard, through his unlimited knowledge of the Fiji Islands, their cosmopolitan people and unique customs, was able to provide local color to his stories. Born on the islands, where his father traded among the savage tribesmen, the son became a leader in international shipping circles. Because of his patriotic service during the World War, he was knighted by King George.

Your Faith In Richmond Is Justified! RICHMOND BUILDS HARBOR

Contract for Half Million Dollar Waterfront Development Marks Forward Stride.

Announcement that the contract has been let for the municipal unit of the half-million dollar inner harbor terminal in Richmond marks another long stride toward completion of one of the largest harbor development enterprises in the bay region. In fact, plans of the Richmond people contemplate ultimately making the waterfront of the Contra Costa city one of the busiest shipping centers on the California Coast.

The location of the city at the head of San Francisco Bay, facing the Golden Gate, which opens the way to all ports of the world, lends itself to the idea of making this harbor all that the advocates of the largest development desire.

The Federal government is giving its assistance, by appropriations for deepening channels from the outer bay to the sheltered basin which makes the foundation for Richmond's inner harbor. The best assurance that Richmond will accomplish the purpose of its enterprising advocates of a large shipping center is found in the willingness of the citizens to back all projects that are intended to improve the waterfront.

The citizens of Richmond show their faith in their city's future by providing money for harbor and other improvements that will facilitate the handling of business.

Richmond has already earned profits from the policy of helping enterprises that will provide transportation facilities by land and sea. The spirit of the community has attracted many large industrial concerns, payrolls of which bring trade to the local merchants, and provide means for construction of a large residential area filled with attractive homes of citizens and their families. Richmond has made great growth in population, in development of an industrial and shipping center, but there will be larger growth as the population and business of Central and Northern California increases.

Richmond folk have faith in their city and are so sincere in this that they communicate this confidence to all who come in contact with them.

YOUR FAITH IN RICHMOND IS JUSTIFIED. THE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE FOSTERS AND ENCOURAGES THIS FAITH.

When you are in your kitchen you put on an apron, even if your kitchen is spotlessly clean.

Gas is a clean fuel. However, a smooth top is built into the new Gas Range to give you added cleanliness.

HOOVER, CURTIS MAP PLANS FOR FALL CAMPAIGN

WASHINGTON, June 19.—(U.P.)—Herbert Hoover and Senator Charles Curtis, the new Republican party standard bearers, sat on the former's back porch today and mapped out preliminary plans for the fall campaign.

Neither would discuss the three-hour conference, although it was said they talked over politics and campaign maneuvers in detail.

Later in the day, Curtis conferred with Senator Borah at the capitol and Wednesday he will see Senator McNary, chairman of the agriculture committee. Both conferences were to discuss farm relief.

The vice-president nominee arrived here this morning from his home in Topeka, Kansas. He was met at the station by Mr. Hoover's automobile and driven to the commerce department.

Hoover and Curtis then went to the former's home for luncheon and devoted most of the afternoon to the back porch discussion.

Curtis said he would leave for a short vacation the end of this week after campaign plans have been definitely settled.

It is expected that Curtis, who is considerably more of a campaigner than Hoover, will start touring the middle west in a few weeks while the presidential nominee devotes most of his time to direction of the campaign and radio speeches.

Pennsylvania Has Its Own Circus Parade

HARRISBURG, Pa., June 19.—(U.P.)—The Pennsylvania Game commission is going into the circus business on a small scale—at least it will operate this summer a traveling menagerie, which will visit the majority of the important boroughs and cities of the state.

Thus far the menagerie contains no lions, or tigers, elephants or giraffes, but it does boast of practically all wild animals to be found in Pennsylvania.

The most ferocious of the animals in their opinion there are three of these, together with four bears; four deer; raccoons, foxes, and a multitude of smaller animals, with which the forests of the state abound.

Members of the commission say that in their opinion there are few Pennsylvanians who realize what a large and varied supply of wild life abounds in this state—judged the greatest industrial commonwealth in the United States.

Pennsylvania, it is said is probably the greatest big game state east of the Rocky mountain. Practically every type of wild animal known in the United States, with the exception of mountain goats, lions, and mountain lions are to be found roaming the mountains and forests of the state.

It is the intention of the commission, with its touring menagerie, which is billed under the more dignified terms of an exhibit, to educate Pennsylvanians to the animal resources of their home. Nevertheless, the exhibit is appealing to the youth of the state as only a wild animal circus could appeal.

Services Are Held For F. Severio

Funeral services will be held this morning at 10 o'clock from Gray's undertaking parlors in San Francisco for Frank Severio, well known in Richmond and Stage as the owner of the Metropolitan Match factory at Stage for 10 years, who passed away at his home in Berkeley Monday.

Severio retired from active business after disposing of his match factory to a chemical firm and made his home in Berkeley. He was the brother of William P. Severio, an employee of the Richmond theatre.

Railroad Chief To Speak Today

BRIDE IS HELD AS OFFICIALS PROBE MURDER

VAN NUYS, Calif., June 19.—(U.P.)—W. W. McIntyre, dismissed from the Los Angeles police force after figuring in a Hollywood shooting scene with Mrs. Hazel Glab, was held tonight on suspicion of the murder of her husband, John I. Glab, retired Chicago druggist.

Mrs. Glab, her niece, Miss Ethel Kaser, of Oklahoma City, and the family gardener, M. A. Wilson, were also booked on suspicion. Glab was shot down in front of his home last night as he was entering his automobile. Suspicion was directed to Mrs. Glab when neighbor reported they saw a woman in white leave the machine after the murder. Mrs. Glab wore a white coat when police arrived.

McIntyre was arrested after authorities learned he had been seeing Mrs. Glab since her marriage to the wealthy former Chicago man.

McIntyre was shot through the right cheek by Mrs. Glab, then Mrs. Hazel Garland, at a party in her Hollywood apartment in January 1927.

She was released when she testified that she shot in self defense. It was understood that McIntyre had become jealous and attempted to beat her for going with other men. Later she married Glab.

Radio Star Is Featured At Lion Lunch

Will R. Hill, poet and radio entertainer, entertained the members of the Richmond Lions club at the luncheon held in the Hotel Carquinez yesterday with poems of James Whitcomb Riley and of his own composition.

H. H. Mylander, president-elect of the club, presided at the sale of 25 chickens from the poultry yard of a blind poultry raiser in whom the Lions have been interested for some time. The chickens were quickly sold at 41 each.

Eastbay Shriners To Attend Dinner Of Modesto Temple

With the denial by the Railroad Commission of a rehearing on the franchise granted the California Transit company to operate its stage lines over Contra Costa county's highways from Martinez to Stockton, steps were taken by the District Attorney's office to take the matter on appeal to the state courts.

Upon the Commission's granting the franchise sought, Contra Costa county's Board of Supervisors which has consistently fought the inroads of commercial stage lines in using the county's highways, asked for a rehearing and in this petition was joined by the San Francisco-Sacramento R. R. company, the Contra Costa Transit company and San Joaquin county, which is also fighting operation of stage lines over the Borden highway.

The California Transit is precluded from carrying local passengers between Martinez and Antioch and at this time will not affect the operations of the Martinez-Bay Point stage.

Poison Holds No Terrors For Midwest Painters

By UNITED PRESS
COLUMBUS, O., June 20.—The skull and cross-bones sign usually found on bottles containing poison means nothing in the life of Warren Williams, 57, and Frank Cleaver, 56.

The men, both painters, were found by police at the receiving end of two bottles so marked in a park here recently. They were taken into police court and their case was heard.

They insisted, when the court levied small fines, that they were quite used to drinking denatured alcohol and that it did them no harm.

They were informed that a fine each time they were discovered drinking it might serve to curb their taste for the poisonous liquor.

Parisians Dine On Mule, Horse

By UNITED PRESS
PARIS, June 20.—Meat from the horse, the mule, and the donkey comprised the menu at a dinner of Parisian gourmets who smacked their lips and said it tasted like more. It was arranged by the National Horse Industry. Horseflesh was the favorite dish of the Hindus, 4000 years ago.

The meal opened with a consommé of horse, followed by a plate of donkey and horse meat sausage. Then there was a spiced mule sausage. The ministers of agriculture, commerce and war were invited to the feast. They sent representatives.

Live Tortoises Are Now Worn By Women Of Paris

PARIS, June 19.—(U.P.)—Emmelled and bejewelled tortoises are being sold at $3 apiece in one of the big department stores of Paris. The little animals are alive and there is a large demand for them because the latest decree of the sorceresses is that the tortoise brings luck.

A painter goes over the back of the tortoise with a fine brush putting on highly colored tints. He is followed by another artist who places multicolored pieces of glass resembling precious stones all over the animal's armor. The tortoise is naturally lazy and once he is fixed to a lady's bag or attached to a fur neckpiece he stays there.

Suicide Increases After Prohibition

By UNITED PRESS
BUDAPEST.—Light suicides per day, an increase of 20 per cent, is the answer of Hungarian citizens to a law forbidding anyone to take his or her life. A clause forbidding newspapers from reporting suicides, it is thought stimulated self-destruction. As soon as the sensitive received assurance through the law that their suicides could not be reported, they joined the suicide army.

"THE MARIPOSA"—Spanish tradition gives us many quaint ideas for those who seek individual and unique furniture. This correct interpretation of Spanish Seventeenth Century design may be authenticated by the simple lines, splat legs, and decorative hardware. Walnut—always favored in Spanish furniturecraft—is used on tops, front and ends in five-ply. Doors and drawer fronts are of figured, matched butt panels. Lacquered cabinet, upper section finished in Antique Glaze is appropriately embellished with Spanish decoration. Base cabinet is in Corsican Lacquer. Distinctive chairs are strong, hickory dowel construction.
